METHODS OF EDUCATION.

The opinions of educators on the best method of education are constantly changing, and in this evolution the nature of the student is being considered to an increasing degree. The education by force has been modified to a form of education which rests on the belief that better results can be obtained by making the education a pleasure rather than an ordeal. This change is evident in the schools as in the universities. In the former physical punishment is being substituted by mental, and the education by force by the lecture hall and the modern text book, which differs from that used a generation ago, as a modern text book in Political Economy differs from a statesman's Year-Book. The latter is a long and complex table of facts, the former is an interesting story which explains by appealing to the curious and imaginative side of human nature. At the Universities more and more freedom in the choice of subjects is being given to the student, while the various courses are being made as interesting as possible. We have all been told that the man who always appears on the top of the list when examination results are published is not always the man who succeeds in after life, and many cases could be given to prove this statement. Yet as time goes on it is becoming less true. The most modern educational systems are devised for the express purpose of giving students who will not spend the best part of their life in drudgery a chance to show their ability, and the fact that a man is not good at Latin no longer condemns him as a poor student.

At McGill this movement towards a more reasonable education has already made itself felt in a number of ways, but there is much left to be done, and many glaring faults, both in the substance and the administration of the various courses. One of the most evident of these is the over-regulation which is everywhere evident. Students in the two senior years are given a certain amount of freedom in choosing their courses, but, in the first two years little or no choice is at present possible. While it is to be expected that the senior classes should have most latitude in planning their work, greater freedom of choice in the first two years, provided it is consistent with keeping up the standard of the University is undoubtedly a long-felt want. Here the question naturally arises as to what should be considered the highest standard which a modern University should demand of its graduates. Long ago, in the great Universities of England, a student at graduation was required to know Latin almost as well as English, while a membership in the established church and a knowledge of philosophy were also essentials. To-day we look back and judge these customs from a higher state of civilization and justly consider such requirements as narrow and irrational, yet we are apt to forget that our present systems are not by any means perfect, and that posterity, considering our present methods from their enlightened point of view, will probably find much to criticize.

The Royal Military College of Canada.

There are few national institutions of more value and interest to the country than the Royal Military College of Canada. Notwithstanding this, its object and the work it is accomplishing are not sufficiently understood by the general public.

The College is a Government Institution, designed primarily for the purpose of giving instructions in all branches of military science to Cadets and Officers of the Canadian Militia. In fact, it corresponds to Woolwich and Sandhurst.

The Commandant and military instructors are all officers on the active list of the Imperial army, lent for the purpose, and there is in addition a complete staff of professors for the civil subjects which form such an important part of the College course. Medical attendance is also provided.

While the College is organized on a strictly military basis the cadets receive a practical and scientific training in subjects essential to a sound modern education.

The course includes a thorough grounding in Mathematics, Civil Engineering, Surveying, Physics, Chemistry, French and English.

The strict discipline maintained at the College is one of the most valuable features of the course, and in addition the constant practice of gymnastics, drills and outdoor exercises of all kinds, ensures health and excellent physical condition.

Commissions in all branches of the Imperial service and Canadian Permanent Force are offered annually.

The diploma of graduation is considered by the authorities conducting the examination for Dominion Land Surveyor to be equivalent to a university degree, and by the Regulations of the Law Society of Ontario, it obtains the same exemptions as a B.A. degree.

The length of the course is three years in three terms of 9½ months each.

The total cost of the course, including board, uniform, instructional material, and all extras is about £100. The annual competitive examination for admission to the College, takes place in June of each year, at the headquarters of the several military districts.

For full particulars regarding this examination and for any other information, application should be made to the secretary of the Militia Council, Ottawa, Ont., or to the Commandant, Royal Military College, Kingston, Ont.

WORKING CONDITIONS.

During the first six months following the staking of the claim, work on it must be performed to the extent of at least twenty-five days of eight hours.

SIX MONTHS AFTER STAKING.

At the expiration of six months from the date of the staking, the prospector, to retain his rights, must take out a mining license.

MINING LICENSE.

The mining license may cover 40 to 200 acres in unsurveyed territory. The price of this license is Fifty Cents an acre per year, and a fee of $10.00 on issue. It is valid for one year, and is renewable on the same terms, on producing an affidavit that during the year work has been performed to the extent of at least twenty-five days' labor on each forty acres.

MINING CONCESSION.

Notwithstanding the above, a mining concession may be acquired at any time at the rate of $5.00 an acre for SUPERIOR METALS, and $3.00 an acre for INFERIOR MINERALS.

The attention of prospectors is specially called to the territory in the North-Western part of the Province of Quebec, north of the height of land where important mineralized belts are known to exist.

PROVINCIAL LABORATORY.

Special arrangements have been made with the POLYTECHNIC SCHOOL of LAVAL UNIVERSITY, 228 ST. DENIS STREET, MONTREAL, for the analysis of minerals at very reduced rates for the benefit of miners and prospectors in the Province of Quebec. The well equipped laboratories of this institution and its trained chemists ensure results of undoubted integrity and reliability.

LECTURES ON GREEK POETRY CONTINUE

Course Given by the Principal and Prof. Macnaughton at R. V. C.

The course on Greek Poetry for English Readers given by the Principal and Professor Macnaughton on Tuesdays, at 5 p.m., in Lecture Room 195, at the Royal Victoria College, are being continued during the second term. The recent lectures of the course delivered by Sir William Peterson have dealt with the Greek Drama, Tragedy and Comedy, and have been among the most interesting and delightful lectures on the Drama ever heard within the walls of McGill.

The lecture next Tuesday, the 22nd, delivered by the Principal, will be on the subject of Euripides, and later lectures will be given on Aristophanes. The last two lectures on Aeschylus and Sophocles, unfortunately fell at a time when students were pre-occupied with the first term examinations. These lectures are among the Extension Courses offered by the University, and by the kindness of the lecturers are open to any student of McGill who can from time to time attend a special lecture, though unable to attend the whole course.

Professor Macnaughton will follow later with four lectures dealing with subjects of the Greek Drama, after which the Principal will follow with lectures upon the subject of Theocritus and Pastoral Poetry and the Greek Anthology.

NAVY DEFEAT McGill AFTER KEEN CONTEST.

White, but out of a mix-up in front of the McGill goal, Paisley batted the rubber past Dooner for the first goal of the contest. The score was 1-0 for the Navy Yard, nineteen minutes after the start. One minute later, the first period ended with the tally unchanged.

From the start of the second period, the play was exceedingly even, and featured with end-to-end rushes by both teams, in which the Navy men's familiarity with the ice stood them in good stead. Gallery nearly scored on a hard shot, but the Navy defence relieved, and Dooner was given two difficult ones to handle. Rooney put in some good work for McGill at this juncture, but the Navy team was strong on combination, and gave Dooner lots of hard shots. Gallery relieved and rushed, putting in a hot one, but Rooney was put off for being off-side. Immediately afterwards, Skilton scored and brought off a fine rush. Once more Dooner was called upon to stop what looked

R. V. C. NOTES.

Dr. Colby, head of the McGill Department of History, will deliver a lecture on "Thoughts on Present Discontents," in the Assembly Hall of the Royal Victoria College to-morrow at 8.15 p.m. This will be the second of a series of four lectures given under the auspices of the McGill Alumni Society for the Benefit of Our Returned Soldiers, and it will probably be the only lecture that Dr. Colby will give this season.

It is confidently expected that everyone who heard Dr. Leacock's charming address, the first of this series, two weeks ago, will be present to hear Dr. Colby, whose excellence as a lecturer is so well known to us all. And it is hoped that all students of McGill will be able to avail themselves of this opportunity of hearing the discussion of a subject which is of such great interest.

There will be a meeting of the Menorah Society to-morrow, January 22nd, at 4.30 p.m., in Room 2 of the R.V.C. Mr. Alexander Sachs, Executive Director of the Zionist Bureau for Canada, will speak on "The Zionist Perspective." R. V. C. students are invited.

ARTS '19, R. V. C.

There will be a very important class meeting to-day, in the Common Room, at 1 o'clock. Chief business, to elect debaters for the Junior-Sophomore debate to be held on February 6. Everybody come.

like a sure goal. He proved equal to the task, and Gallery relieved. Rooney came on again. Behan got the rubber and skated in on Lacroix to make the tally sure. It certainly looked as though the score would be evened here, but Lacroix saved once more. The puck travelled up to the McGill end again, and Cully secured, but was unable to break away. Dooner again was given a hot one to handle.

The game seemed now to be slowing down as a result of the terrific pace set in the first period. Anderson got away to a rush, and lifted the rubber in without effect. Rooney nearly scored a minute later, but Lacroix was there again to save. Behan scored and shot, but was unable to score. Right after, Paisley notched his second goal, in eighteen minutes from the whistle. At the resumption of play, Howard was hurt unintentionally, but pluckily refused to leave the ice, and went on playing. Downing was put off, but the Navy continued to attack. Dooner ran out of the nets and saved what looked like a certain tally for the Navy. Gallery relieved and rushed, getting in a shot, but luck was against the McGill team. The second period ended with the score 2-0 for the Navy Yard.

In the final period, the Red and White put up a great game, fairly taking their opponents off their feet from the start. Behan skated right in on top of the nets, but was tripped up just when he looked like scoring. McGill continued to out-play the Navy men, and from a face-off, "Ted" Behan tallied amidst wild applause from the McGill supporters present. From the face, big John Gallery got in a vicious shot that came within a hair's breadth of scoring. Skilton relieved and rushed, but his shot was ineffective. Behan once more got in up on the Navy goal, after fooling their defence, but was again tripped, Skilton going to the bench. Osgood was also put off for holding. Howard was hurt again, but continued playing. Behan made a pretty rush, but could not score.

At this point, the McGill boys had all the better of the play. Behan in particular making the Navy look silly several times. The speedy centre nearly scored again, but Lacroix made a great save. On a combination rush, Osgood put an end to McGill's hopes by tallying the third and last goal for the Navy Yard, in twelve minutes. From the face, the Navy forwards rushed, but Dooner ran out and cleared. There was considerable loafing off-side on the part of the Navy men right here, but the referees seemed unable to see it. The game ended with Navy still two goals in the lead. The final period was cut short five minutes, owing to the ten o'clock closing law in effect in the United States. During the last few minutes, the college boys made desperate efforts to score, but the time was too short to change the result.

The game put up by the Red and White was of the best, Behan and Dooner being, perhaps, the chief stars, if any are to be singled out for special praise. For the Navy Yard, Skilton and Paisley played fine hockey, while Lacroix's work in goal was really marvellous, he several times keeping the McGill forwards from scoring what looked like sure ones.

HELD BANQUET AT EDINBURGH

Lieut.-Col. Starke and Capt. Simpson Were Guests.

WELL ATTENDED.

Was First Annual Banquet of the Scout Section, McGill C. O. T. C.

The banquet held by the Scout Section of the McGill Contingent C. O. T. C., at the Edinburgh Cafe, on Saturday evening, proved a very successful affair, a representative number being in attendance. Col. Starke, O.C. of the Battalion, and Capt. Simpson, Adjutant, were guests of the evening, Major Harrington, Capt. Macdougall and Lieut. Phillips being unable to attend.

The table decorations were attractively carried out in red and white carnations and the flags of the Allies, and an excellent six course dinner was served.

After the customary toast to "The King" had been honoured, the toast of "The C. O. T. C." was proposed by Pte. Killaly, and responded to by Colonel Starke. In the course of his remarks, the Colonel spoke of the good record of the Battalion in general, and of the Scout Section in particular. Speaking of the members of the section who had gone overseas he mentioned the fact that Major Royal Ewing, at one time a private in the Scouts, had won "the enviable distinction of the Military Cross, Croix de Guerre and Legion of Honor. Many other members of the Scouts had gone overseas and were doing their bit in the trenches. His Royal Highness, the Duke of Connaught, who had been a soldier all his life, had remarked to Colonel Starke on one occasion on the excellent discipline and esprit de corps of the McGill C.O.T.C. Col. Starke himself had been connected with the Canadian Militia for 30 years, and was convinced that the esprit de corps that existed in the C. O. T. C. was surpassed in no other battalion—"once a member of the C. O. T. C. always a member." The work undertaken by the battalion had been more advanced than that undertaken by any other militia unit in this Military Division, and a record of efficiency had been achieved that had brought the battalion into enviable notoriety. But there still remained a duty with every man of the regiment to carry on with his training and to achieve the highest state of efficiency.

Following on Col. Starke's remarks, Corp. Macdonald, the toastmaster, called upon Capt. Simpson to say a few words on the same subject. Captain Simpson, in his opening remarks, reminded the men that the Scout Section formed part of the Headquarters Company of the Battalion, which as such, was under the command of the Adjutant. The Headquarters Company of the C.O.T.C. held the reputation of the best attendance on parade, and was otherwise a distinguished company. Capt. Simpson then proceeded to give a history of the C. O. T. C. movement. The first O. T. C. had been formed at Cambridge University in 1907. In 1912 Col. English organized the McGill C.O.T.C., which at the outbreak of the war numbered 116 men, which number was doubled four days after the outbreak of war. Major, now Sir Auckland Geddes, had taken up the organization of the Corps, but was recalled to England, being at that time on the reserve of officers. Capt. Allan Magee stepped into the breach, and carried on the work. As Major Magee he raised an auxiliary battalion, which soon acquired the reputation of being the best trained organization in Montreal. When Major Magee recruited that crack battalion, the 148th Battalion, C.E.F., he was superseded in the command of the C.O.T.C. by Major Harrington, who has since carried on the work with a great deal of success. Capt. Simpson stated that record has been kept of over 1,500 men and 65 commissioned officers of the C.O.T.C. who had gone overseas, although it is believed that even a larger number than this have gone over. Over 500 men had gained commissions in overseas units, and nearly every honor list published in the papers contained the name of some C. O. T. C. man. Lieut. Hoare, formerly a private, and later Lieut. of Scouts, had been put in charge of a Divisional Signalling School in England, and was considered one of the most capable officers of the C. E. F. Capt. Simpson complimented the men of the Scout Section on the esprit de corps that had existed in the Section this year, and in conclusion expressed the hope that they would carry on in this spirit, which was an example other units of the battalion might well follow.

The next toast on the programme was that of "Our Comrades Overseas" which was most ably proposed by Corp. Macdonald, and responded to by Sergt. Collier, who had been connected with the Scouts since the formation of the first Scout Section by Major Magee in 1915. Sergt. Collier recalled some of the members of the McGill C.O.T.C. who had gone overseas, and spoke particularly of those officers and men who had gone with the Universities Companies, of the P.P.C.L.I. and the 148th Battalion—men who had worthily upheld all the traditions of McGill and its C.O.T.C. The memories of such men as Capt. Percival Molson would ever be respected by men everywhere.

The toast to "The Ladies," which followed, was proposed by Pte. Moscovitch—apparently an epicure on such sweets—and was replied to in a very witty speech by Pte. Segall.

This terminated the serious part of the programme, and there followed then a series of "unofficial toasts," proposed by different members of the Section, and responded to respectively by the (Pte. King), the Prime Minister (Pte. Borden), and The Leader of the Opposition (Pte. des Lauriers), who made a witty speech on the vicissitudes of his political career. Pte. O'Neill, who in the course of the evening had excellently rendered two songs, rose and proposed a toast to "the Hula Hulas," which afforded an opportunity of provoking a little fun.

at the expense of that veteran Scout, Private (U) Killaly.

The evening was fittingly concluded by the singing of "God Save the King," and the giving of three cheers each for the Colonel, Adjutant, and the Sergeant.

Much of the success of the event was due to the untiring efforts of Cpl. Macdonald, Privates Mackenzie, Cassidy, Moscovitch and Killaly, who spared no effort on their part. It is hoped that this may become an annual event of the Scout Section, which hope is warranted by the unqualified success that attended this, the first Annual Banquet of the Scout Section.
